Course Description

During this two day advanced course, emphasis will be placed on the rationale of gingival grafting, indication and contraindications, case selection, surgical tips and treatment planning strategies. This is one of our most popular courses. It has immediate take home application. Most doctors discover many cases awaiting them in their practice and within weeks are performing this great service.

Live surgeries feature case planning and preoperative discussions. Exciting hands-on activities enable harvesting, placing, and suturing tissue on mediums such as rubber coated articulating models and pig heads.

Learning Objectives

- Understand various diagnostic elements for each graft
- Review limitations and indications for each type of graft
- Discuss the process of harvesting, placing and suturing tissue
- Review the instruments needed during grafting
- Review processes for minimal palatal trauma
- Learn techniques for single teeth root exposure
- Learn techniques for multiple teeth with root exposure
- Understand the esthetic concerns and biologic width
- Explain periodontal tissues around natural teeth and relation to dental implants
- Learn the application of dermal and palatal gingival grafting
